The Measuring Community Capacity Resource Kit is in many ways a celebration of the combined capacities of those involved throughout this project. Without the talents, skills, experience, energy, and thoughtfulness of the following people and organizations, the development of this Kit would not have been possible:

First of all, thank you to Health Canada for funding this project through the Population Health Fund. Thank you also to Horizons Community Development Associates for contributing additional funds for completing the project.

Special thanks to Michelle Hébert-Boyd and Irene Rose at Health Canada for their support, passion, insight, and a commitment to making this Kit work for community groups.

This project has benefited significantly from the considerable and diverse talents of Darcy Santor and the team at iSurvey Canada for the websurvey and data analysis components of the project; Richard Landry for the translation of the materials; Jan Catano for a clear language review of the key materials; and Keith MacIntyre for graphic design and printing.

Thank you to Shelley Cobbett, Chair of the Sharing Strengths Research and Evaluation Committee for feedback, participation, and support throughout the project.

Most importantly, sincere and genuine thanks to the community workers at the heart of developing this kit: Carole Hill-Bojarski, Colette Surette, Connie Robichaud, Marilyn Johnston, Patti Simpson, Peter McCracken, and Shelley Doucette. Thank you for enriching the project through your insights and experiences, for facilitating the involvement of your group members, and for your enthusiastic and honest participation in piloting this Kit.
